Hi,

I'm in India. India is an exciting and interesting country. The people are friendly and they speak many different languages but they also speak English.

India has thousands of different mammals, reptiles and birds in its national parks. Today I'm visiting the Blue Mountain National Park where sometimes it snows. Here you can see bears, eagles, snow leopards, tigers and other wild animals. It's fantastic!

Tomorrow I'm going to visit the Taj Mahal. It's the most famous place in India. The Taj Mahal is white but it changes colour! Do you know why?

Hi,

I'm in South Africa. Today we are walking on Table Mountain. It's near Cape Town. Table Mountain is high so you need strong walking boots to come here!

South Africa is a great country to visit. You can see wild animals on safari, visit interesting museums, go shopping in the big cities and play football in some famous football stadiums!

South Africa is famous for growing flowers and fruit to sell in markets in many different countries around the world. Its people are famous too. They are called the Rainbow Nation. Can you guess why?

P.S. Do the challenge!

If you like surfing, where is the best place to go in South Africa? Use the link at www.macmillan.es/games to investigate and find the answer to the question.

Hi,

I'm in Australia. Here, lots of people love sport. Two favourite sports are cricket and rugby. Today we are on a sports' tour and can see many people surfing at the seaside near the Great Barrier Reef. It is a beautiful place!

My favourite place is Uluru in the Australian outback. (There's a photo of it on the postcard). At the Uluru museum you can learn about the culture of the Aboriginal people who were the first people to live in Australia.

Tomorrow we are going to Sydney to visit the famous Opera House and walk across the Sydney Harbour Bridge. It takes 1 hour to walk across the bridge! Can you guess how long the bridge is?

P.S. Do the challenge!

How long is the Sydney Harbour Bridge? Use the link at www.macmillan.es/games to investigate and find the answer to the question.

goes to Canada!

NEW TIGER

Hi,

I'm in Canada. It's the second largest country in the world! In Toronto, we got lost and people gave us directions to go to Ripley's Aquarium where there are more than 20,000 fish!

The people are very friendly and also different. It's a multicultural country. There are two official languages in Canada; French and English and many people speak both languages.

Today we are camping in the Rocky Mountains. The mountains, rivers and forests make it a great place for walking, fishing and rafting. I love camping and walking but it is not so easy. My rucksack is very heavy! Can you guess what I've got in my rucksack?
