Leonardo da Vinci – a man of many talents

Leonardo da Vinci

Leonardo da Vinci was an artist, a scientist and an inventor. He was born in Vinci, a small town in Italy, in 1452.

When he was a child, he didn't live with his father or his mother. He lived with his grandparents. His grandfather was very old and he didn't play with him. The little boy was alone all day. He sometimes walked in the forest with his uncle, Francesco. Leonardo loved these walks. He looked at the birds, the rivers and the mountains. He liked to make drawings of animals and moving water.

When he was a teenager, Leonardo moved to Verrocchio's workshop. Verrocchio was a great artist and Leonardo was his apprentice. He lived and worked in Verrocchio's workshop with lots of other students. Verrocchio trained them to make brushes, paintings, statues and many other things. After the classes, they cleaned the place. The workshop was always busy and messy during the day and clean and tidy at the end of the day. Leonardo lived in Verrocchio's workshop for thirteen years.

The Mona Lisa, a painting by Leonardo da Vinci

Verrocchio was a good mentor, but Leonardo was more talented than his master.

Model of Leonardo's bicycle

Leonardo wasn't just an artist. He also studied the human body and invented machines. He designed a bicycle, a plane, a helicopter and lots of other machines. But these machines didn't work. They were only drawings on paper. Leonardo was a man of great imagination.
